

ARL Server Offers New Career Resources Service

Starting January 1, 1996, job hunters could access vacancy announcements from ARL member libraries on the World Wide Web. This new service was designed to alert prospective employees to job vacancies and career opportunities within ARL member libraries provides a new and improved forum for advertising openings.

Over the years, ARL member libraries routinely exchanged job vacancy announcements and sought assistance from their colleagues in other libraries in their recruitment efforts. Now ARL, through its cultural diversity and recruitment program, seeks to provide a more systematic and cost-effective means for the recruitment of talent to research libraries.

The ARL Career Resources World Wide Web site provides electronic access to job announcements categorized by type of library service. These announcements are updated regularly as job status changes. Also as part of this service, ARL supplied member libraries with a template for preparing announcements that will allow them to be submitted electronically.

Further information about the service is available from Allyn Fitzgerald (allyn@arl.org).
