

Recent ARL Publications on Scholarly Communication

New Brochure on Scholarly Communication

A new brochure called CREATE CHANGE is now available for use in your campus information efforts on scholarly communication. It outlines the key issues and offers several actions that faculty can take to help create a new system of scholarly communication. Copies of the brochure can be purchased in bulk for 25¢ per copy from ARL Publications <pubs@arl.org>. The text of the brochure is available on the Web at <http://www.arl.org/scomm/change.html>, if you prefer to customize or create your own product.

Managing the Licensing of Electronic Products

SPEC Kit 248, August 1999

by George J. Soete, with Trisha Davis

This SPEC survey sought to discover how research libraries have organized the licensing of electronic products and how they approach the associated problems. Licensing guidelines and related job descriptions from institutions, along with a bibliography, will help libraries who are seeking to establish licensing procedures of their own.

Educating Faculty on Scholarly Communication Issues

SPEC Kit 250/TL 10, September 1999

by George J. Soete, with Mary Case

Reports of strategies used by ARL libraries to inform faculty about scholarly communication issues are presented, along with a summary of interview findings, a checklist for assessing your library's educational program, and a bibliography of additional resources.

To order either of these SPEC Kits ($40; $25 ARL members), contact ARL Publications at <pubs@arl.org>.

Table of Contents for Issue 207 | Other Scholarly Communication Articles

ARL policy is to grant blanket permission to reprint any article in the Bimonthly Report for educational use as long as full attribution is made. Exceptions to this policy may be noted for certain articles. This is in addition to the rights provided under sections 107 and 108 of the Copyright Act. For commercial use, a reprint request should be sent to ARL Director of Information Services, Julia Blixrud.