Listening Session on OSTP Policy Guidance: Ensuring Free, Immediate, and Equitable Access to Federally Funded Research

November 16, 2022
2:00–3:00 p.m. ET

Agenda

| Welcome & Introductions | Mary Lee Kennedy, MLS
| Executive Director, Association of Research Libraries |
| National Science and Technology Committee Overview | Martin Halbert, PhD
| Science Advisor for Public Access, National Science Foundation |
| Library Statements for Federal Agency Representatives | Vicki Coleman, MLIS
| Dean of Library Services at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University |
| | Sandra Enimil, JD, MSLIS
| Program Director, Scholarly Communication and Information Policy, Yale Library |
| | Harriet Green, MSLIS, MA
| Associate University Librarian for Digital Scholarship and Technology Services, WUSTL Libraries |
| | Nandita Mani, PhD
| Dean of Libraries at the University of Massachusetts Amherst |
| Wrap Up | Judy Ruttenberg, MLS, MA
| Senior Director of Scholarship and Policy, Association of Research Libraries |
Speaker Bios

Vicki Coleman, MLIS
Dean of Library Services
North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University

Vicki Coleman has been the Dean of Library Services at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University (NC A&T) since 2011. Prior to joining NC A&T, she held leadership positions at Arizona State University, the University of Virginia, the University of Kansas and at Texas A&M University. Before entering the library profession, she was an engineer at Ford Motor Company.

Coleman is a member of the American Library Association and the HBCU Library Alliance, and is the past president of the Association of 1890 Land-Grant Library Deans/Directors Association. She serves on the Editorial Board of portal: Libraries and the Academy and recently served on the American Library Association — Center for the Future of Libraries Advisory Group and the Association of College and Research Libraries 2021 President’s Program Planning Committee.

Coleman holds a BS in mechanical engineering from NC A&T and an MLIS from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

---

Sandra Aya Enimil, JD, MSLIS
Program Director, Scholarly Communication and Information Policy
Yale University Library

Sandra Aya Enimil (she/her) is the Program Director for Scholarly Communication and Information Policy at Yale University Library. Sandra currently serves as chair of the ACRL Research and the Scholarly Environment Committee. At Yale, Sandra contributes to advancing openness by providing strategic insight, information and resources on scholarly communication and open scholarship. She also consults with Yale researchers on using copyrighted materials and assists creators in protecting their own copyright. Sandra is the License Review Steering Committee chair and provides input on licenses of all types for the library. Sandra collaborates with individuals and departments within the library and across campus. She has given numerous presentations on various aspects of copyright and scholarly communication. Prior to this role, she was the Copyright Services Librarian at Ohio State University Libraries. Sandra is committed to diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) and is interested in the intersection of DEI and intellectual property.

Sandra earned her Law and MSLIS degrees from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Sandra has BAs in Political Science and Psychology from the University of Michigan and an MA in International Relations from the University of Ghana.
Harriett Green, MSLIS, MA
Associate University Librarian
Washington University in St. Louis

Harriett Green is Associate University Librarian for the Digital Scholarship and Technology Services division at Washington University in St. Louis. She previously held positions on the faculty at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign Library and School of Information Sciences. Before becoming a librarian, she worked in publicity and marketing at the University of Chicago Press.

Her research focuses on scholarly communication and digital publishing, humanities data curation, and the use and users of digital humanities tools and resources. She earned her MSLIS from the University of Illinois’ Graduate School of Library and Information Science, and also holds an MA in Humanities/Creative Writing from the University of Chicago and a BA in History and Literature from Harvard University.

---

Nandita Mani, PhD
Dean of Libraries
University of Massachusetts Amherst

Nandita S. Mani serves as the Dean of University Libraries at the University of Massachusetts Amherst, where she provides strategic, administrative, and financial leadership of the largest publicly supported research library in New England. In addition to its large physical and digital collections, it also includes the Robert S. Cox Special Collections and University Archives Research Center, which contains the papers and memoirs of W. E. B. Du Bois, Horace Mann Bond, Daniel Ellsberg, Kenneth R. Feinberg, the Irma McClaurin Black Feminist Archive, and hundreds of other collections documenting the lives and work of activists, innovators, political figures, spiritual leaders, writers, and more. Dean Mani oversees the UMass Libraries in its role as a strategic partner supporting the academic and research enterprise of UMass Amherst, a flagship land grant institution, and represents the UMass Libraries with service as a member of the Association of Research Libraries, the Five College Library Consortium’s leadership committee, and the Board of the Boston Library Consortium. Dean Mani also serves as a member of the Campus Leadership Team, actively collaborating with other campus Deans, Vice Chancellors, and the Provost to engage high-level campus priorities and lending her expertise on topics as varied as justice, equity, diversity, and inclusion (JEDI) efforts, data science and data management practices and infrastructure, and the activation of special collections as research and curricular supports.

Her publishing experience has been in areas including information science, diversity, equity, inclusion, health literacy, and instructional design and technology. Notable works include serving as Co-Editor and Author for Handbook of Research on Academic Libraries as Partners in Data Science Ecosystems.

Dean Mani received her bachelor’s degree from Concordia University of Edmonton, Alberta, and subsequently earned a master’s in library and information science and a PhD in instructional technology, both from Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan.
Federal Agency Representatives Attending

Leighton Christiansen, MALIS
Data Curator
Department of Transportation

Martin Halbert, PhD
Science Advisor for Public Access
National Science Foundation

Brian Hitson, MBA
Director, Office of Science and Technical Information
Department of Energy

Christopher Steven Marcum, PhD
Assistant Director for Open Science and Data Policy
Office of Science and Technology Policy

Carly Robinson, PhD
Assistant Director for Information Products and Services
Department of Energy

Kathy Sharpless, PhD
Open Access Officer
National Institute of Standards and Technology

Jerry Sheehan, MS
Deputy Director for Policy and External Affairs
National Library of Medicine - National Institutes of Health

Andrea Medina Smith, MS
Data Librarian
National Institute of Standards and Technology

Anthony Smith, MS
Associate Deputy Director
Institute of Museum and Library Services

Nancy Weiss, JD
General Counsel
Institute of Museum and Library Services

Maryam Zaringhalam, PhD
Data Science and Open Science Officer
National Library of Medicine — National Institutes of Health